1. BACKGROUND

Since 2010 the Government of Moldova (State Chancellery) in partnership with the UNDP and UN Women has been implementing the "Joint Integrated Local Development Programme" (JILDP), funded by the Government of Sweden, and lately by the Government of Denmark. The JILDP was designed to support the Government in improving the policy and legal framework, as mandated by the National Decentralization Strategy to ensure local autonomy, availability of resources, and more effective local management for better and equitable service provision, as well as to improving the capacity of Local Public Authorities (LPAs) to deliver efficient, equitable and accessible local public services, to facilitate sustainable development and foster social inclusion. The Programme's objective is also to assist in building the capacity of LPAs to plan, implement and monitor their strategic plans and improve local public service delivery, engaging women and men from local community groups, including most vulnerable. The program is applying Human Rights Based Approach, Gender Mainstreaming and Women's Empowerment as guiding conceptual approaches and instruments to its activities and interventions, seeking to ensure positive and measurable change in the areas of human rights, gender equality and social inclusion.

Starting with 2013, a new phase of JILDP is being implemented, with the financial support from the Danish Government. With adoption of the National Decentralisation Strategy in April 2012, a comprehensive framework for decentralization in the country has been created. Within the new phase, the JILDP aims at providing central and local public authorities with technical support in the implementation of this strategy. One important area of such support is related to the elaboration of sector-specific decentralization strategies and to designing of practical arrangements to implement the strategies.

Working groups on decentralization in various areas of public policy were created under the Parity Commission on decentralization. The line ministries provide a Secretariat to the Working groups to ensure coordination of activities of working groups as well as consistency between the developed decentralization policies and the governmental priorities.

During the previous phase of the program the first drafts of two sector decentralization strategies were developed with the support of JILDP – one in the area of education and one in the area of social assistance. During the new phase of the program, the program aims at supporting the development of two more sector strategies: a) in the area of healthcare and b) in the area of water and sanitation. This support will be provided via national consultants hired by JILDP for each of the two areas to work in close collaboration as a team with the gender-mainstreaming consultant hired under the attached ToR.
