20. Preliminary examination

The Purchaser will examine the Proposals to determine whether they are complete, whether any computational errors have been made, whether the documents have been properly signed, and whether the Proposals are generally in order.

Arithmetical errors will be rectified on the following basis: If there is a discrepancy between the unit price and the total price that is obtained by multiplying the unit price and quantity, the unit price shall prevail and the total price shall be corrected. If the Offeror does not accept the correction of errors, its Proposal will be rejected. If there is a discrepancy between words and figures the amount in words will prevail.

Prior to the detailed evaluation, the Purchaser will determine the substantial responsiveness of each Proposal to the Request for Proposals (RFP). For purposes of these Clauses, a substantially responsive Proposal is one which conforms to all the terms and conditions of the RFP without material deviations. The Purchaser's determination of a Proposal's responsiveness is based on the contents of the Proposal itself without recourse to extrinsic evidence.

A Proposal determined as not substantially responsive will be rejected by the Purchaser and may not subsequently be made responsive by the Offeror by correction of the non-conformity.

21. Evaluation and comparison of proposals

A two-stage procedure is utilized in evaluating the proposals, with evaluation of the technical proposal being completed prior to any price proposal being opened and compared. The price proposal of the Proposals will be opened only for submissions that passed the minimum technical score of 70% of the obtainable score of 1000 points in the evaluation of the technical proposals.

The technical proposal is evaluated on the basis of its responsiveness to the Term of Reference (TOR).

In the Second Stage, the price proposal of all contractors, who have attained minimum 70% score in the technical evaluation will be compared.

The cumulative analysis scheme will be applied with a total score being obtained upon the combination of weighted technical and financial attributes. An Offeror's response to the solicitation document is evaluated and points are attributed based on how well they meet the defined desirable criteria. Cost under this method of analysis is rendered as an award criterion, which will be 30% out of a total score of 1429 of all the desirable factors of the RFP. The contract will be awarded to the offeror obtaining the highest cumulative score. The following formula will be applied in calculating the cumulative score: $B = T + \frac{C_{low}}{C} \times 429$,

T – is the total technical score awarded to the evaluated proposal;

C – is the price of the evaluated proposal; and

C_{low} – is the lowest of all evaluated proposal prices among responsive proposals.

Facilitation of gender self-assessment and monitoring of audio-visual, print and on-line media in the Republic of Moldova before, during and after the elections

January, 2015 - March, 2016

BACKGROUND:

UN Women, grounded in the vision of equality enshrined in the Charter of the United Nations, works for the elimination of discrimination against women and girls; the empowerment of women; and the achievement of equality between women and men as partners and beneficiaries of development, human rights, humanitarian action and peace and security. Placing women's rights at the center of all its efforts, UN Women leads and coordinates United Nations system efforts to ensure that commitments on gender equality and gender mainstreaming translate into action throughout the world. It provides strong and coherent leadership in support of Member States' priorities and efforts, building effective partnerships with civil society and other relevant actors.

UN Women is operational in Moldova since 2010 on the basis of former UNIFEM projects, which were laid and active in the country from 2007. It extended continuous support to the Government of Moldova, to key stakeholders from national and local levels, through various programmes and activities aimed at creating an enabling environment for gender equality, recognized as a prerequisite for sustainable development with a strong and active policy on gender equality

In 2014, UN Women jointly with UNDP and in partnership with the East Europe Foundation (EEF) and the Centre for Participatory Development (CPD) started a new programme in Moldova: "Enhancing Women's Political Representation through improved capacity and enhanced support in Moldova" (Women in Politics), implemented with financial support of Government of Sweden. The programme aims at ensuring an increased participation of women in politics and in the decision-making process by creating an environment conducive to their meaningful participation, and providing support to capacity development of women before, during and after the elections at the central and local levels. It will also seek to promote increased public awareness of women's contribution to political leadership. The proposed programme will support the realization of women's rights and commitments undertaken by the Government of Moldova.

The programme purpose is to support gender equality advocates in creating a favourable environment for advancing women's right to participate in decision making at national and local levels by influencing legal frameworks and policies to increase women's leadership and political participation.

The programme consists of two inter-related components, and each UN Agency is responsible for the implementation of activities under particular areas of intervention. UN Women will be responsible for the overall programme implementation, and will be leading the specific parts related to the election legislation review and high-level advocacy for Temporary Special Measures (TSM), media capacity development, capacity of CSOs and women candidates, work with the communities and women on identifying their needs, among others. UNDP's area of responsibility is related to the electoral assistance and administration, parliamentary affairs and capacity building of elected women and builds further on the results achieved through the previous and on-going support to the institutional capacity development of the Parliament and the Central Elections Commission (CEC) with a focus on enhancing capacities of the Election Management Bodies on gender responsive electoral management and on strengthening capacities of elected women parliamentarians and councillors for performing the elected official's duties.

Also, in December 2013, UN Women entered into agreement with European Commission to implement a regional project „Promoting and Protecting Women Migrant Workers’ labour and human rights: Engaging with international, national human rights mechanisms to enhance accountability” (WMW Project) with 3 pilot countries: Mexico (Latin America), Moldova (Eastern Europe), Philippines (South East Asia). This project strives to promote women migrant worker’s rights and protect them against exclusion and exploitation at all stages of migration. It aims to contribute to this overall objective by (a) strengthening strategic international human rights mechanisms, national oversight institutions and governments to ensure accountability to women migrant workers at all stages; (b) strengthening women migrant workers’ organizations and their support groups to effectively engage with the above stakeholders to ensure greater accountability to them.

WMW Project is intended to generate a range of results which include changes in the awareness, understanding, capacities and responses of the primary target groups – relevant treaty bodies, special procedures mandate holders, UPR, governments, Parliamentarians/Parliamentary secretariats, national human rights mechanisms/institutions - to women migrant workers in the direction of promoting and protecting the latter’s rights.

Since migrant women have a promising potential for local development and are becoming true “agents of change” in their families and local communities, it is important that public perception shaped by the media picks up these new gender realities and discovers the true contribution of women migrants. But a shift in perception is made difficult if migrant women continue to be labelled in the media as “victims”, “prostitutes”, and mothers who left carelessly their children behind, and not those who actively contribute to the economy and bring new skills and “social remittances” to their local communities. Thus, there is a need to critically analyse the image of migrant women in the media and to improve the level of awareness and gender sensitivity of media organizations when covering the subject of migration and as a result, to debunk the popular stereotypes and myths tied to the image of migrant women and change their public perception.

RATIONALE:

An assessment that was carried out in 2012 by UN Women found that media has been both a help and a hindrance to gender equality and women’s empowerment. It is widely perceived that financial resources linked to political interests restrict some editorial decisions – and that sometimes these interests may not align with the gender equality movement or with support for women candidates. Equally problematic is the roles that women often play on television – where men are more likely to appear as ‘experts’ while women generally feature as ‘ordinary people.’ Though not unique to Moldova, these trends do not encourage women’s empowerment, or gender equality in politics.

Constraints on influencing these practices include the entrenched financial/political influence, and difficulty of influencing editors through traditional means such as training. To overcome these constraints, an approach is needed that aims to influence the gender sensitivity of media, by improving transparency on how they cover it, and setting up an incentive structure that will encourage self-improvement in this area.

UN Women is thus, working in challenging the degrading image of women in media since 2008 through employing various tools, lately called as gender self-assessment of media organizations. As an example, in 2013 in total 17 print and on-line media organizations participated in the self-assessment initiative and their results are largely positive, especially in increasing portrayal of women in the domains of politics and economy as well as increasing practices of gender sensitive approach to media.

Based on this successful implementation, UN Women is planning to extend this exercise to a broader range of print, on-line as well as audio-visual media organizations to undertake media gender self-assessment before, during and after the elections within the framework of implementation of two programs, Women in Politics and Women Migrant Workers programs. In this context UN Women intends to hire a company/s to replicate the media gender self-assessment with special focus on the role of women in decision making and in politics as well as portrayal of women migrants and carry out media monitoring on their gender sensitivity to political reporting.

SCOPE of WORK:

Under the overall guidance of UN Women National Programme Officer and direct supervision of the Managers of Women in Politics and Women Migrant Workers Programmes the selected company (further referred to as Contractor) is expected to prepare the methodology, train media organizations and facilitate the gender self-assessment to be undertaken by print, on-line and audio-visual media to promote a human rights and women's empowerment approach in media products and monitor how media cover gender issues before, during and after the elections, with a particular focus on the role of women in decision making and in politics and critical analysis of popular perceptions and negative stereotypes of women migrants. While common tasks and deliverables are being expected to be provided by the Contractor for the three different categories of media, separate LOTs are being announced for the call for each of the three categories as described below:

More specifically the Contractor will implement these initiatives in the following stages and will be responsible for the following:

1. Preparatory stage

- a) Develop the methodology for gender self-assessment, based on the available draft manual that was developed previously with the support of UN Women, for specific media organizations:

LOT 1: audio-visual
LOT 2: on-line and
LOT 3: print media

in consultation with lead media representatives and based on previous experience and lessons learnt from the gender self-assessment initiative;

- b) Establish Media Evaluation Committee/Board and develop its regulation/Terms of Reference, taking into account an earlier experience to the extent possible. The Evaluation Committee/Board will provide guidance and advice and will assess the results achieved during the entire exercise of media self-assessment including audio-visual, on-line and print media;

- c) Develop a full Terms of Reference for:

LOT 1: audio-visual,
LOT 2: on-line
LOT 3: print media organizations that will take part in the gender self-assessment;

- d) Announce a competition among:

LOT 1: audio-visual
LOT 2: on-line
LOT 3: print media

at the national and local levels to participate in the training and in the self-assessment exercise. The number of media organizations selected for participation in training can be much higher than the number of media organizations to be selected for the gender self-assessment exercise.

- e) Prepare and organize a training for the selected audio-visual media representatives.

LOT 1: training for audio-visual media
LOT 2: training for on-line media
LOT 3: training for print media

The training will aim providing media organizations with knowledge and skills on how to ensure a gender-equality and women's rights based approach to media production with a particular focus on the role of women in decision making and in politics and contribution of women migrants and their role in local development. The training modules will require a full set of training materials and handouts to be developed and adjusted for targeted groups of audio-visual, on-line and print media;

- f) Select the participants from the trainees, which will undertake gender self-assessment with the financial and conceptual support of the Contractor.
